What makes your solution unique?

What stage of innovation are you at? (CHECK ONE)

- Proof of Concept: A stage of innovation in which the basic technical and financial feasibility of an approach has been articulated, but where an initial model remains to be built and/or validated through testing.
- Product Development: A stage of innovation in which a concept that has been technically validated refines its features and business plans and successfully enters a market.
- Scaling: A stage of innovation in which a product or service has successfully entered a market and is either expanding its number of users or entering additional markets.

Please include any other information that you feel would be useful for consideration
